

Barbault Planetary Cycle Index

Additionally, this bunching together of planets is mirrored by the Barbault Planetary Cycle Index that has been at a low for 2020-2022, indicating a greater chance of pandemics, wars, and other global problems. This index reaches its absolute low for the century sometime between early March and early April, and this is the most dangerous period for the period from 2000 to 2100.