

THE FIRES OF LAHAINA

When researching the astrological indicators behind a mundane event, I don't believe that it is adequate to just look at the transits for the time of that event. You also have to ask yourself, "Why are things happening at this particular place at this time and not some other place?" Thus, for the fires that burned in Lahaina on August 8, 2023, one should strive to exam not only current transits but also the USA chart, the chart for Hawaii, and if possible, a chart for Lahaina. The chart I use for America is the July 2, 1776, chart for the passage of the Resolution for Independence, and for Hawaii, I use a chart for the day that it became a state. Finding a chart for Lahaina, though, is trickier because it has a very long history, and both countries and cities that have been around a long time can go through several deaths and rebirths. Also, any change in status can count as a new birth. Thus, for Lahaina's most recent date of birth I use August 31, 1850. This is when the capital was officially transferred from Lahaina to Honolulu. However, since Honolulu was incorporated later on April 30, 1907, I choose that as its most recent birthday.
