

THE FLOODS OF VALENCIA
OCTOBER 30, 2024

On October 30, 2024, there was catastrophic flooding in Spain that devastated the town of Valencia and killed at least 217 people. Thus, I decided to look at the astrology of the situation. However, there are currently two charts for the country of Spain. The older one is for 19 January 1479, and it corresponds to the marriage of Prince Ferdinand of Aragon and Princess Isabella of Castille, and with this marriage the kingdom of Spain officially began. The second chart, though, for modern Spain is based on the inauguration of King Juan Carlos on 22 November 1975. Of these two charts, however, it is the older one that seems to resonate the most with recent events.

Here is the chart for the founding of Spain in 1479, and it really looks quite nice as It contains a grand trine and two mini-grand trines.

We'll now look at the transits for Spain on the day of the floods, 30 October 2024, and these transits make the catastrophic events quite clear. Also, even though I am not an expert in how astrology affects the weather or other natural phenomena, I do find it quite interesting how often water signs pop up in these transits.

The main indication of the disaster is the strong conjunction of transiting Pluto (destruction) with the natal Sun (the nation and its leaders) while being opposed by transiting Mars (physical disrupton). Additionally, we see that the Moon's nodes are involved. Also, notice that Mars is in Cancer, a water sign.

We also have transiting Uranus sesquiquadrate natal Venus, indicating some sort of sudden shock to the people of Spain.

Also quite important are the semisquares to the Sun being made by transiting Saturn and Venus. At the same time, transiting Venus is making a sesquiquadrate to natal North Node and a semisquare to the South Node while transiting Saturn makes a sesquiquadrate to transiting Mars. This raises the tension and the likelihood of some sort of catastrophic physical event. Also, Saturn represents structure while Pisces weakens that structure. And notice, too, that Saturn is in Pisces, a water sign.

And finally, notice that the transiting South Node is making a sesquiquadrate to natal Jupiter while the transiting North Node makes a semisquare to Jupiter. Jupiter is the ruler of Sagittarius, and in Sagittarius we find Uranus in conjunction with Neptune. Since Uranus rules sudden change while Neptune rules liquids such as water, when Jupiter is stimulated and intensified in this manner, sudden flooding is just one of the many possibilities.

We know that the city of Valencia began in 138 BCE as a Roman encampment, but we don't know exactly what month of the year it was founded. However, if it were founded on June 25 of that year, then the planetary transits would be sufficient to explain why Valencia instead of some other Spanish city.

On June 25, in the year 138 BCE, transiting Neptune was conjunct natal Pluto, and that combines water (Neptune) with destruction (Pluto). Additionally, transiting Sun in Scorpio (water sign) square Uranus would act as a trigger for this unexpected, sudden, catastrophic event.
